

Learn Linux TV - tmux Cheat Sheet

d

a

Tmux is an absolutely fantastic terminal multiplexer, allowing you to become more efficient on the Linux command-line. Check out this short but sweet series, which will teach you everything you need to know about the all-powerful tmux!

General

d	detach session
r	reload config file
l (lowercase L)	clear history
t	fullscreen clock
?	list bindings

Prefix key needs to be provided.

Sessions

tmux	start tmux (session)
tmux new -s <name>	start named session
tmux ls	list sessions
tmux a -t	reattach session
tmux a -t <name>	reattach named session
Prefix + s	list sessions (from within tmux)
Prefix + $	rename session (within tmux)

These are linux commands, except mentioned.

(Video 4 - Managing Sessions)

Prefix Keys

Prefix Keys

CTRL + F

CTRL + J

Video links

Video 1 - Introduction

Video 5 - How to Customize

Blog post - .tmux.conf template

Article on customizing tmux

Support Linux Learning (commission earned)

Receive a 5% discount on an LPI exam voucher

Affiliate store for Linux compatible hw/accessories

Become a channel member on YouTube

Become a Patron on Patreon

Mastering Ubuntu Server 4th Edition

Awesome KVM for your Homelab

Splits and Panes

v	vertical split
h	horizontal split
ALT + ←	select pane on the left
ALT + →	select pane on the right
ALT + ↑	select pane above
ALT + ↓	select pane below
Prefix + y	toggle synchronize mode

ALT-Key combinations must be used without Prefix.

Video 2 - Splits and Panes

Windows ("not the overrated OS")

c	new window
,	rename window
w	list windows
SHIFT + ←	previous window
SHIFT + →	next window
CTRL + SHIFT + ←	swap window to the left
CTRL + SHIFT + →	swap window to the right

Prefix must be provided, ← or → are keyboard arrows

Video 3 - Managing Windows

